The Dangerous Politicians.

(Cincinnati Enquirer.)

The President is proudly not able to see what objection there should be to making Leonard Wood a major general. Had he not, through the sudden inflammatory demand for a "hero" that sometimes arises among the American people, been shot like a rocket into the governorship of New York, and then side-tracked from that office by the politicians of the Empire state to the vice presidency to get clear of him, and then translated by a calamity utterly unexpected to be president and commander in chief, he would have expected nothing less for himself than a major generalship, and would have been satisfied with nothing less than chief of staff of the army. Now he wants a real election to the presidency. He likes the situation and wants to keep it four years more. He has been apparently confident on account of the endorsements he has received from many state conventions, and the solemn assurances of steadfast support he has received from many of the most commanding politicians of the country.

But was not Arthur, who was a politician by the side of whom Mr. Roosevelt is a fairly, utterly deceived? If the President has reflective moments, can he not look back intelligently and significantly to the manner in which he has been "handed" by the politicians himself? His nomination for vice president was against his judgment and desire. He regarded re-election to the governorship of New York as his high road to power and glory. The politicians would not allow him to stay at Albany. They attempted to bury him at Washington. It was not their mistake, not Mr. Roosevelt's acuteness, that kept the plan from succeeding. It was an "accident"—the sort that puts the whole country in mourning.

It may easily turn out that if President Roosevelt is nominated next year he must descend for the nomination on an irresistible demand for him on the part of the rank and file. He is far from having a surety of the actual support of the influential and commanding politicians. They may be against him at the critical moment. Such things have been, and may be again. However, if the President can beat the politicians with the popular will, it may be all the better for him and the country. But he cannot do it through spontaneity. He may have to organize his popularity, and the earlier he finds out whether that course is necessary or not, the better.

ROOSEVELT MEDDLING IN WESTERN POLITICS.

Some uneasiness is apparent in Republican circles at the West over the alleged purpose of the President to interfere in local politics, and direct nominations according to his way of thinking in the states of Illinois and Wisconsin, where there promises to be a bitter contest over gubernatorial nominations next year, coincident with the presidential contest. The President in the Roosevelt strenuous way appears to have reached the conclusion to "mix in" as he has done in New York as between Odell and Platt. Illinois has a number of candidates for governor, and in Wisconsin four are announced. Both are stormy states in the arena of state politics. State politicians have been in Washington in conference with the President, and it is given out that he may have very decided opinions, with equally positive assertions on the other side. It is the Roosevelt way to interfere and dictate. His plan on some plea of infallibility is to boss the Republican machine in the West as well as in the Empire state. More than one President has come to grief by personal ambition that overleaps itself, and Roosevelt has that inclining.

OHIO GUARD

Governor Nash Urgently Requests the State's Soldiers to Attend Inauguration Exercises

Governor Nash Monday issued an urgent request to the Ohio National Guard to turn out for the inaugural parade.

Under the law the governor was compelled to state that the attendance would be purely voluntary and so the troops must pay their own traveling and per diem expenses.

It is believed a large part of the Guard will attend the inauguration, both because Colonel Herrick has shown great interest in the organization, and because the Guard hopes its new commander-in-chief will favor liberal appropriations for militia maintenance.

The governor in his letter says: "I trust that the pride you have in the Ohio National Guard will cause you to accept this invitation and that you will show your loyalty to your new commander-in-chief by your presence upon this occasion."

It is already known that the First, the Cincinnati regiment, will be here. All the Cleveland troops, infantry, battery and horse, will come and will be the guest of the Columbus troops.

CUBA RESTS IN HONOR OF HERO

Havana, Dec. 3.—Yesterday was observed as a national holiday in Cuba, it being the seventh anniversary of the death of General Maceo, who was killed while daringly attempting to raise an army in Havana province with which to attack Matanzas, and also the anniversary of the death of General Gomez's oldest son, who was Maceo's aide-de-camp, and who was shot while trying to rescue Maceo's body.

The ceremonies at Cascajal, where Maceo was buried, were attended by a throng of people from Havana, including government officials and clergy.

IOWA HAS RACE SUICIDE FEVER

Des Moines, Ia., Dec. 3.—President Roosevelt's big family idea is given a severe setback in the report of State Superintendent Barrett which shows a decrease of 10,000 school children in Iowa since 1902 enrollment.

The record shows the 1903 enrollment to be 550,202 as against 560,173 for 1902. The high mark was reached in 1900, when 566,000 pupils were enrolled in schools.

State Superintendent Barrett explains this decrease by holding that large families are unpopular among educated classes. The decrease also is attributed to immigration of families to the Hawaiian islands and Canada.

Thrashing machines are used to a limited extent in Seville, but the old system of beating out the grain by driving colts and mares around in the open thrashing floor is still generally prevalent. With the exception of some half a dozen farmers, who have chiefly English implements, no one there uses really modern agricultural machinery.

WANT HANNA TO RUN.

Republican Senators Prefer Him to Roosevelt--Many Urge Hanna's Candidacy and the President is Worried--His Negro Policy a Help To His Enemies.

Washington, Dec. 3.—President Roosevelt's fears concerning Senator Hanna arise from two causes. One is that two-thirds of the Republican membership of the United States senate has urged Hanna to be a candidate for president and is still hoping that he will see his way clear to fulfill their expectations. The other is that Hanna himself is mysteriously vague regarding his personal attitude toward the president's ambition. He has made only one thing clear, and that is that he will not manage Roosevelt's campaign if Roosevelt is nominated.

The president has got into an ugly row with his own party in the senate. He surrendered the good opinion which Republican members of the house generally held of him when he insisted upon calling the special session against their earnest protests.

Politicians who a few months ago were proclaiming his nomination as an event already settled are looking into the future with troubled eyes. They do not like the attitude of business men toward the president. The battle in New York between Platt and Odell is rapidly resolving itself into a test of grandstones, with the president occupying the unfortunate position of being between them. Whichever side wins the president will be hurt.

The president understands these things, and he understands, moreover, that many of the policies which he has urged are losing him friends in sections where he once believed he had no opposition. When he voluntarily threw over the policy of the late President

McKinley, which was conceived to establish white domination in the South and create a Republican organization that would exercise an influence upon that section, he supposed that he was winning votes in the North. He is convinced now that he was laboring under an illusion.

Within a few days an example of what the president's negro policy is likely to produce has been brought to the attention of the people of Washington. A negro, William Ferguson by name, has just been dismissed from the census office, where he was employed as a clerk, for writing a note to a young white woman employed in the same office requesting that he be permitted to call upon her. The young woman, suffering from shame and humiliation, became prostrated and is now at her home under the care of a physician. Ferguson, who hails from Alabama, was appointed at the personal suggestion of the president. He is known to have called at the White House on at least one occasion, when he left his card for the president.

If Senator Hanna would admit to his friends that he was a candidate, for president it is conceded that he would instantly become formidable. Practically the entire Republican membership of the United States senate is ready to support him on a minute's notice.

Senator Lodge is the only notable exception to the avowed attitude of his colleagues, and he is for Roosevelt because he has constituted himself a member of the president's kitchen cabinet.

PRESENTED BOGUS CHECK.

Newark Firm Sells Goods to a Stranger who Fails to Claim Them--Now Mr. Thompson Can Not be Found.

A man giving the name John Thompson, and claiming Harrisburg, Pa., as his home, visited the furniture store of Besanceney & Henneberg, in East Park place, and picked out furniture and household goods worth $314 last Saturday afternoon.

He told Mr. Besanceney he had rented a house in South Second street, of John R. Warner, real estate man. This was found to be true.

Returning to the store in the afternoon, after banking hours, the man tendered a check for $335, signed by Thomas M. Hunter and drawn on the Lafayette National bank of Cincinnati. Mr. Besanceney, not knowing the man, instead of giving him the difference in money, wrote a check for the $21.

Thompson said he would procure the key to the house and have everything in readiness for the goods to be sent out on Monday, when his wife would arrive in Newark.

A clerk in the store followed Thompson to the real estate office in South Park place, where the latter gave the $21 check in payment for the first month's rent, Warner giving him the balance, $9, in cash.

The $335 check was taken to the Newark Trust company, which, at the request of Mr. Besanceney, wired the Cincinnati bank, which replied that the check was bogus.

Monday, Thompson failed to appear for his goods and the owners of the store are of the opinion they have lost the $9, which they returned to Warner.

Thompson cannot be located and is not known here. He claimed to be here placing a target and signal system on the Baltimore and Ohio and said he had several men working under him. The man said he had been a railroad man for many years and formerly ran on the Pennsylvania and on the Southern Pacific.

He was aged 60 years, about 5 feet 11 inches tall, gray-haired and heavy build, and complained of being deaf.

THE MODERN MADAME DE MAINTENON

KATHARINA SCHRATT, WHO, 20 YEARS AGO, WON HEART OF EMPEROR FRANZ JOSEF, AGAIN GOING ON THE STAGE.

Emperor Franz Josef, of Austria, the Fascinating Actress Who Won His Heart, and the Palace of Schonbrunn

Vienna, Dec. 7.—The reappearance of Mme. Katharina Schratz on the stage after a somewhat long period of artistic inactivity is quite the event of the commencing theatrical season in Vienna. For 20 years and more this distinguished actress has been not only the favorite of the theatre-loving Viennese public, but over and above her successes as an actress, one of the best known and envied women in Austria.

For, when yet almost a novice on the stage Katharina Schratz won an emperor's heart.

Emperor Franz Josef saw her act, and fascinated by the charms of this graceful and talented young artist, fell straightway in love with her.

It will be remembered that the late Empress Elizabeth lived almost entirely apart from her husband during the last 20 years of her life and this separation merely served to strengthen the affection which soon sprang up between kaiser and actress. Their relations indeed were carried on without any attempt at secrecy. At Ischl, whether Mme. Schratz invariably fol-

MILLS CLOSED

By Miners' Strike and Sixty Families Were Found in Great Destitution in Consequence.

Denver, Colo., Dec. 8.—The Humane Society has discovered that 60 families, formerly employed at the Overland Cotton Mills, were in the last stages of destitution from lack of provisions and coal. They have not had anything for 10 days besides what they could pick up in the neighborhood, which is somewhat remote from the city and off the beaten line of travel. The mills were shut down through the coal strike, depriving the company of fuel, and then came the death of J. L. Jerome, president of the company, who had supported the families out of his private purse pending the resumption of work. Mr. Jerome, when the mills were shut down, told all of his old help that they would not suffer from the temporary loss of employment as he would see to their comfort.

He ordered the company store to honor all requests for food and fuel until the work was resumed. After his death, when it was learned that his estate was likely to be embarrassed, through losses in Wall street the company directors canceled the store order and since that time the people have been finding a precarious living. Through the enlistment of a company in the National Guard from the mills, a hundred men were relieved, but their families could not obtain anything to eat until after the first pay day, which will not be until some time next month.

A Romantic Wedding.

Zanesville, O., Dec. 8.—A pretty little romance, which began with the opening of the present theatrical season, culminated here yesterday when Benjamin H. Howe actor, and Miss Grace G. Haylor, actress, with "The President's Daughter" company, were married by Rev. J. W. Wight, D. D., of the South Street M. E. church.

The young woman, who gave Richmond, Ky., as her home, hesitated considerably before swearing to Zanesville as her place of residence, but the conjunction of conscience vanished before the thought that "this is as much my home as any other place."

The groom gave Allegheny, Pa., as his home.

The surplus of the Western Union Telegraph company has risen, as shown by the reports just issued to $13,619,000.

ORDINANCE

ACCEPTING RIVERSIDE VETOED BY MAYOR.

Hospital Managers and Council to Meet Next Monday—Business of City Council Monday Night.

The City Council held the first meeting of the month in the council chamber Monday evening, with all members and officers present.

The minutes of the previous meeting were read and approved.

The finance committee reported the bids received for the deposit of the city money, the bid of the Newark Trust company, being 2 6-10 per cent and that of the Licking County Bank being 2 3-4 per cent. The contract was awarded to the latter.

The finance committee submitted letters received from various banking and brokerage firms regarding the special assessment bonds to the amount of $47,000. With the exception of one firm all declined to pay par value for such bonds at 4 per cent. It was decided to allow the matter to lay over until the next meeting.

The mayor returned three resolutions by Baker to construct brick crossings at various places because of a lack of funds. The mayor's report was received and filed.

The resolution by Moser to borrow $154.82 for the construction of sidewalks was vetoed by Mayor Crilly because Section 95 of the municipal code provides that the council shall sell bonds in anticipation of the collection of special assessment. The report was received and filed.

Mr. Hunter's ordinance accepting Everett's Riverside addition was also vetoed and the mayor's veto was received and filed.

The mayor's report for November showing that $116 had been collected during the month in fines and licenses was received and filed.

A petition from the ladies of the hospital board was presented by Mr. Conrad. The petition recites that the building used for the city hospital at present is entirely too small and often necessitates the turning away of patients, many of whom would pay for treatment. The lease of the present building expires February and the petition suggests that a committee be appointed by the president of Council to confer with the management of the hospital regarding the making of a new lease. The petition was received and filed.

President Russell appointed council as a committee of the whole to confer with hospital management.

Mr. Baker presented a petition from the property owners on East Spring and Water streets asking for an electric light at the corner of Hill and Water streets, referred to the board of public service.

The ordinance by Jones to change the name of Vale street to Jackson street was read for the second time, and was given its third reading, and was passed under suspension of the rules.

An ordinance by Mr. Hunter to construct a brick crossing across Pennycuik avenue from the P. C. & St. L. railroad tracks to East Main street was read for the first time.

Mr. Moser made a motion to pass the ordinance to accept the Wchle addition over the mayor's veto. After some discussion the matter was referred to the board of public service for investigation of improvements made in the addition.

Resolutions.

By Hunter.—To construct a sewer on Locust street from Fifth to Twelfth street. The resolution was passed after its third reading.

City Solicitor Smythe reported that Attorney Edward Kibler, for the P. & O. railway company, desired to submit a proposition regarding the crossing cases and requested that a committee be appointed to confer with Mr. Kibler. President Russell appointed Judge Hunter, Mr. Jones and Solicitor Smythe as a committee to confer with Mr. Kibler.

COON ROAST

Newark Party Enjoys a Treat of Coon and Its Accompaniments at Hebron.

Monday evening on invitation of Messrs. Frank & Reeb, the Hebron restaurateurs, a party of 21 Newark men left on the 7 o'clock Buckeye car for that place to eat coon.

At 8 o'clock the supper was served in the handsomely appointed dining room of the hotel, the guests being seated at three large tables, loaded with good things to eat, the most prominent dish, of course, being composed of six large, fat coons, banked up with sweet potatoes and gravy.

The supper was discussed amid good humored talk, and after the cigars had been lighted and the corks began to pop, several neat little talks were given by members of the party, and a quintet sang several songs.

A vote of thanks was tendered to the genial hosts, Messrs. Frank & Reeb, and the party returned to Newark on the 11 o'clock car.

FRAZEYSBURG

Man Has Mail Pouch Lock Which He Will Patent—Ought to Capture the Prize.

A novel device in the way of a mail pouch, lock and fastener, has been perfected by Mr. George W. Holtz, of Frazeysburg. This lock and fastener is quite an improvement over the cumbersome regulation lock and is surely a piece of admirable mechanism. The strap, notches, guard and lock weigh barely 1 3-4 ounces and although forty improved locks have been entered in the contest for $10,000 which the government has offered for the best lock and attachment, Mr. Holtz should succeed in capturing the prize.

WARRANTS

ISSUED FOR SEVEN PROMINENT MICHIGAN MEN.

Charged With Complicity in the Grand Rapids Scandal—Another is Yet to Come.

Grand Rapids, Mich., Dec. 8.—Chapter 2 of the Lake Michigan water scandal was opened to the public last night. Judge Hagerty, of the police court, has signed warrants for the arrest of seven more prominent men implicated in the water works scandal by the confession of ex-City Attorney Lant K. Salsbury, and by his testimony at the police court examination thus far held. An eighth warrant will be issued today. The list of men for whom warrants were issued is as follows:

Charged with conspiracy, J. Clark Sproat, former member of the defunct Grand Rapids Democrat; Charles S. Burch, manager of the Grand Rapids Evening Press; Eugene D. Conger, manager of the Grand Rapids Herald; J. Russell Thomson former reporter for the Grand Rapids Evening Press; Isaac P. Lamoreaux, former city clerk.

Charged with attempting subornation of perjury, William F. McKnight, attorney, who was candidate for attorney general in 1900.

Charged with perjury, ex-State Senator George E. Nichols, Ionia, Mich., attorney-at-law.

The warrants were issued on the complaint of Prosecutor Brown, based on the testimony of ex-City Attorney Lant K. Salsbury.

The maximum penalty on conviction for conspiracy is $2,000 fine or imprisonment for one year in the county jail, or both, in the discretion of the court.

The warrants for conspiracy in the famous water deal charge Charles S. Burch, of the Evening Press; J. Clark Sproat, of the old Morning Democrat; Eugene D. Conger, of the Herald; J. Russell Thomson, former reporter of the Evening Press, and Isaac P. Lamoreaux, former city clerk, with accepting money from Salsbury for assisting him to try to get a contract with the city to furnish water from Lake Michigan.

Salsbury swears that he gave Burch $5,000; Sproat, $17,500; Conger, $10,000; Thomson, $500, and Lamoreaux, $1,500, of a $100,000 bond fund placed in his hands by H. A. Taylor, a New York capitalist, to procure a contract with the city.

LIONS

Tore Frau Fischer, the Lion Tamer, to Pieces, While Her Children Sat in the Menagerie Box.

Dessau, Germany, Dec. 8.—Frau Fischer, the lion tamer, was torn to pieces by four lions in a menagerie cage and in sight of a great crowd of people. She was trying to make a lion spring through a hoop and struck it with a whip, whereupon the animal leaped upon her and felled her at one stroke. The woman shrieked once, and the three other lions joined in the attack on her and fought among themselves for fragments of her flesh. There was a frightful panic among the spectators and many persons were injured.

Finally the lion tamer's assistants, armed with iron rods and hooks, succeeded in dragging the animal from the woman's dismembered remains. The children of Frau Fischer were in a box witnessing the performance when their mother was killed.

MAN WANTED

LEAPED INTO OFFICERS ARMS AT ZANESVILLE.

Arthur Vogel Wanted on the Charge of Obtaining Money at Bank Under False Pretenses.

Zanesville, O., Dec. 8.—Arthur Vogel, the young man who is wanted in Roseville on the charge of obtaining $250 from Roseville banks by alleged false pretenses, was arrested Monday by Chief Arthur and Patrolman Roach.

The chief got a "tip" Monday that Vogel was visiting his wife in Pine street. The officers went to the house and Roach knocked at the front door. Vogel made a leap through a side window into the chief's arms.

Vogel was taken to Roseville last evening. He is said to have told Roseville bankers that he anticipated starting a slate yard here and needed the money to get his stock to that village.

Vogel is the young man who created quite a furore a few years ago by eloping with his Sunday school teacher whom he married. Less than a year ago he wed his wife under an assumed name, saying that he had been killed and wished the money for the transportation of the body to this city.

the coast of San Blas, 50 miles south-east of Puerto Bello, intending to open communication with the San Blas Indian citizens for the purpose of ascertaining the conditions of the trails leading along the coast toward the Colombian frontier, and whether they are available for the movement of Colombian troops on Panama.

Indians occupy the coast between Nonembre de Dos and Cape Tiburon, and have maintained their isolation for generations. They have always resisted the incursions of white people into their country, not permitting them to spend a night on the mainland, and forcing a few adventurous traders trafficking along the coast to sleep on a small island. It is reported that the Indians still keep up the old Carib custom. They are said to favor Panama, and are ready to fight against the Colombians. Colombia never succeeded in taxing or in any way controlling the San Blas Indians, but the Panamanians have endeavored to establish schools in the San Blas country.

The two keys to the separate boxes, in the inner one of which is the treaty, will go to the United States in custody of Major Guy L. Edloe, of the medical department of the United States Army, who has been here for a fortnight looking into sanitation matters.

The Royal Mail steamer ship agent here received a telegram from Port Limon, Costa Rica, informing him that the government of the department of Bolivar, Colombia, had reopened the ports of Savanilla and Cartagena to vessels to and from Colon.

The German steamer Valdivia sailed for Cartagena hoping to enter that port.

THE ONLY POWER

Of Consequence Withholding Recognition of Panama is Great Britain.

Washington, Dec. 8.—Official information of the ratification by the Junta of Panama of the isthmian canal treaty has been received by the administration. In accordance with that information the President sent to the Senate the treaty for ratification by that body. It was learned last night that Russia had notified Ambassador McCormick that the Czar had signed the decree recognizing the republic of Panama. This leaves Great Britain the only power of consequence that has not yet extended recognition or signified an intention of doing so. The British government desires to secure some pledges from the provisional government of Panama that provision will be made for the settlement of a portion of the foreign debt of Colombia held by English subjects.

SCORES ROOSEVELT.

Berlin, Dec. 8.—The Koelnische Zeitung reports that an American syndicate has tendered a bid to the Russian government to construct a ship canal connecting the Baltic and Black seas for $160,000,000, which is 35 per cent cheaper than the German, English, French or Russian tenders. The Americans will probably secure the contract.

Mr. Bowser's Caller

He Wanted Data in the Interest of Medical Science

[Copyright, 1903, by C. B. Lewis.]

THE Bowyers had finished dinner and returned to the sitting room, and Mr. Bowser was about to ask Mrs. Bowser how long Nonh floated about in the air and then claim that the time was ten days more or less when a caller was announced. He was shown into the library, and he explained his presence by saying:

"Mr. Bowser, my name is Peters, and I represent the International Medical World. If you are not too busy this evening I should like to have a little talk with you."

"I do not wish to subscribe to a medical paper," stilly replied Mr. Bowser. "You will not be asked to. The paper will be sent to you free gratis for the rest of your life. My idea is to interview and write you up. I have been instructed to give you a full page and to ask for your photograph, and of course there will be no cost to you."

"But I don't see the object."

"Solely in the interests of medical science, my dear man. Your case has been referred to in almost every medical journal in the land, but nothing like an interview has yet been published. I do not ask you to give me your time for nothing. I am authorized to pay you $25 in cash for such information as I require."

"How has my case been referred to in medical journals?" sharply inquired Mr. Bowser. "Am I some sort of freak that I have been written up and held up to the gaze of the public?"

"Not at all, sir; not at all," soothingly replied the caller. "You understand that there is a wide difference between a freak and a unique character. You are recognized as unique—odd—refreshing. You do things that nobody else does. You stand out from other characters as a knot does on a log. The world truly says there is only one Bowser. Others may try to imitate you, but they cannot share your originality. It is for that reason that I am here."

Mr. Bowser didn't know whether to feel flattered or insulted, and after a minute he made a compromise between the two and asked just what was wanted and added that he could not think of accepting any money for the information he could give.

"I wish to ask you," said the interviewer as he consulted his notebook. "I wish to ask you, with all due consideration for your sensitiveness, how you felt under certain circumstances. For instance, could you tell me whether your brain was perfectly clear or beclouded when you started out to ride a bike in your back yard a year ago?"

"Why shouldn't I learn to ride a bike, and why should my feelings differ from any one else's? Your question seems a bit impertinent, sir."

"It was not meant to be, Mr. Bowser. Medical science is never impertinent, but ever and always curious. You need not answer the question if you feel sensitive on the point, and I will pass on to the next."

"You took a day off in the country with Mrs. Bowser in June. Among the things you observed as you rambled over green meadows and sauntered through sylvan glades was a wasp's nest hanging on the limb of a tree. You at once pronounced it the nest of an oriole, and when Mrs. Bowser differed with you you said that you were gathering oriole's nests while she was still in her cradle."

"In order to convince her that you were a man who never made a mistake and to humble her as she deserved for having an opinion on an agricultural question you hunted around for a pole and knocked the nest down. Much to your delight she ran away to a safe distance and thus permitted you to get another laugh on her. If I am in error you must correct me, but I believe the number of wasps who got down your collar and up your pants legs was fifteen and that they had lots of fun with you. What I intended to ask you was whether the orioles flew away before?"

"Sir, what do you mean by addressing me in this manner?" demanded Mr. Bowser as he rose up with flushed face.

"No disrespect, I assure you," was the reply. "I am simply seeking to find out what your sensations were as the wasps got in their work and the orioles sang. Certain medical writers have asserted that the sting of a wasp produces the same peculiar sensation as being jabbed with a pitchfork or falling down the cellar stairs. You have probably been jabbed, and you have probably fallen. Could you say that the sensations were identical?"

"I can say—I can say, sir, that it appears to be a case of impudence on your part to call here this evening, and I wish you to understand that this interview is closed. If it was not in my own house I—I—"

"Exactly so—exactly," quietly replied the man as he made some notes in his book. "My object was to perturb you, and it has been accomplished. You are flushing red and white by turns; there is a glare in your eyes; your ears are working back and forth. In the interests of medical science allow me to ask you to describe your sensations mentally."

"Must I tell you to get out doors?" shouted Mr. Bowser as he pointed in the direction of the front door and grew still more excited.

"Please be calm and quiet, Mr. Bowser. You kindly granted me this interview, and I hope you won't abridge it. I mean nothing personal in my remarks, and if you can assist medical science it is your duty toward your fellow man. Please sit down while I ask another question."

"In learning to ride a bike you at last got your balance and started off to astonish Mrs. Bowser. There was an apple tree leaning around the back yard, and you all at once started in to uproot it. Let me ask, first, as a physiological fact, if you really believed you could accomplish the feat or whether it was the result of sudden mental exhilaration? Secondly, what were your sensations as you lay on your back on the earth after taking a header, with your back telescoped and made three inches shorter? Were you conscious of your surroundings, of the presence of Mrs. Bowser and the cook, of the words uttered by three small boys perched on the fence, or did you sink away into a state of delightful unconsciousness and imagine you were out on a huckleberry excursion?"

"If you cannot answer that question let us try another, as we have still several hours before us. Upon a certain occasion the doctor ordered you to take boxing lessons in order to strengthen your spinal column. Your backbone had got warped over astarboard, and the idea was to plumb it up and down again. You got a heavyweight to put on the gloves with you, and after making a few flourishes to show off you swung with your right to knock his blamed head off. You wanted to do something to make a record. Unfortunately for you he was a man who couldn't appreciate a joke, and he blocked your blow and landed on your chin in return."

"Let me ask what your sensations were when you went down and jarred the house from roof to cellar? It is on record that you slept for a quarter of an hour. What dreams came to you, if any? It has been asserted that under such circumstances one dreams of pastoral scenes—green meadows, sloping hills, shady dells and running brooks. Was it so in your case? And about your spinal column. Is it still out of plumb or did that punch?"

"Stop, sir," roared Mr. Bowser at last.

"What is it now?"

"I'll take no more of your insults, sir. You can't get out of this house too soon to please me. The idea, sir—the idea!"

"Do you mean that this interview is ended?"

"Certainly. Get out at once while I can restrain myself."

"Perhaps you would rather I should call at the office? If so—"

"No, sir; no, sir. You need never come near me again!"

"No? Too bad that the world should be the loser, but we must make the best of it. I will not pause to inquire about your present sensations, but bid you good night and depart. Good night, Mr. Bowser, good night."

Mr. Bowser stood in the front hall until he got his breath, back and then entered the sitting room with pretended carelessness.

"Who was it and what did he want?" asked Mrs. Bowser as she looked up in an innocent way.

"Oh, nobody but a real estate man who wanted to sell me a hill or something," replied Mr. Bowser as he brushed his teeth and sat down to his evening paper.

DIETRICH'S GOOD LUCK

Thrilling Incidents in the Nebraska Senator's Life.

OFTEN A TARGET FOR BULLETS.

Early Career in the Black Hills Was Checkered by Numerous Strenuous Experiences—His Escapes From Death—An Instance Where He Had His Nerve With Him.

Friends of Senator Charles H. Dietrich of Nebraska are wondering if the remarkably good fortune which has followed him through his entire life will desert him in his present trouble with the federal grand jury, says a Hastings (Neb.) dispatch to the New York World.

With the good fortune that was to attend him always Mr. Dietrich had found his way to the west just as the discovery of gold in the Black Hills had opened a rich field for fortune hunters. He hadn't enough money to pay his way by stage, so he hired the transportation of his provisions, loaded blankets and clothing on his back and trudged beside the provision wagon to Deadwood. It was in winter, and many dangers awaited any one who would brave the blizzard and the Indian. He walked unprotected 400 miles and passed through Red canyon. Before and after his trip few whites had come out of the canyon alive, but Dietrich went through untouched.

He had no more money, and it took money to prospect. So he opened the first store in Deadwood, The Pioneer, and stocked it with his provisions. His goods brought high prices from those who had come with money, but without food. Dietrich disregarded the cautions of his friends and peddled food through the Deadwood country, traveling on foot. That winter he was one of a party that helped to lay out the town of Spearfish.

Dietrich now had sufficient capital to open a mine and with two partners located the Aurora, made famous not only by its value, but also because of the determined attempts of rivals to oust the three prospectors.

There was no law at that time in the Black Hills; there was no system of establishing property rights; all men were trespassers, and title meant possession. So Dietrich and his partners fortified themselves on their claim and sent out word that any unwelcome visitors would not be given the privilege of leaving. The rest knew what this meant and did not attempt open attack. The Aurora owners attributed their trouble to the men who held the nearby Hidden Treasure and Keats mines. One of the three guarded the Aurora sod house all the time. One night the guard's attention was attracted by the falling of a pebble from above. Looking up, he discerned the skulking figure of a man. A challenge brought no answer, but precipitate flight. A giant powder bomb had been dropped by the visitor. It was learned afterward it was the man's intention to light the bomb, drop it upon the sod house and next morning take possession of what was left.

Dietrich's luck was discomfiting to his rivals, and now he was offered $100,000 for the mine, it being understood that refusal meant a resumption of hostilities. Dietrich refused the offer. Not long after, Cephus Tuttle of the Aurora mine was shot from ambush and killed. Two bullets hit Dietrich, one grazing his forehead. Then Dietrich discovered that the Hidden Treasure people had stealthily dug tunnels into the Aurora property and were planning to blow it up from below. Dietrich said nothing, but put his men at work digging counter tunnels and laid powder mines in such a way as to blow up the men working in the Hidden Treasure.

Just as the night shift went into the Hidden Treasure to relieve the day force Dietrich and his crowd sallied boldly to the mouth of the mine and covered the exit with their guns. The Hidden Treasure people were told that a refusal to capitulate would result in destruction of the Hidden Treasure, so there was an unconditional surrender. Dietrich was conceded title and sold at a handsome figure.

Dietrich was so fascinated with the life that instead of taking the opportunity to leave he joined the vigilance committee. The very first case, that of Thomas Smith of Denver, is one that Dietrich has told as an illustration of his good luck. Smith left a wealthy wife in Denver and went to the bad in the hills. His wife followed after a time and told the committee that he had spent all her fortune and refused to support her.

Con Stapleton, marshal for the committee, and Dietrich were detailed to find Smith and bring him up for trial. They located him at Belle Union, the toughest corner of the hills. Smith refused to go, a fight followed and in the scuffle Dietrich was stabbed in the hand and abdomen. But Smith was taken. The committee found he should turn all his property over to his wife and leave camp before 10 o'clock the next morning.

That night Dietrich slept in the cabin of Forman, one of the committee. The door consisted of a blanket hung across the opening. Dietrich was about to retire when a Winchester rifle was thrust through the opening, and Smith appeared behind it. Dietrich seized the gun and wrestled it away. Dietrich could have killed the man, but instead accepted his promise to leave town immediately and allowed him to go. Smith was afterward killed in California.

If Dietrich loses to the Omaha grand jury it will be the first piece of bad luck in his whole life.

THEIR LAST DINNER

By VIRGINIA LEILA WENTZ
Copyright, 1903,
by T. C. McCure

She had promised him the evening of a week before, and when he asked her where they should dine she had answered:

"At our little French restaurant—don't you remember? It will be like old times." Old times meant the days when they had worked together as reporters on a local paper. That was two years ago.

So tonight, down in the old fashioned southwest quarter of the city, they sat at one of the square tables. The low ceilinged room was presided over by a plump, kindly host. Apparently monsieur had not gained a single wrinkle in these two years!

Ah, and here, too, came their old waiter, with one of those smiles of the waiter who is at the same time an old friend. Of course he didn't know anything about his patrons' lives during the past two twelvemonths. He assumed that they were married.

"We have one of madame's favorite dishes tonight," he said, addressing Muriel. She flushed slightly.

Presently the girl ceased her flow of light hearted chatter and began turning her cup about in a slow, mechanical fashion.

"Billy," she said, "it has happened." She spoke in that soft, low tone won-

And, and"—She glanced to look up from the ring, and the pain in the man's face stopped her words.

"I never knew before that you liked to torture people, little woman," he said.

"I didn't mean—I didn't suppose," she began; then she added softly, leaning forward:

"Anyhow, we can both remember. And, after all, isn't a memory that will live better than a dead romance?"

There was a suspicion of a sob in the girl's voice, and as she drew on her gloves Billy saw a glittering tear fall upon her hand.

When he had received his check and paid the waiter, he rose abruptly and crossed over to lay Muriel's wrap about her shoulders.

"You won't make it too hard for me—to give you up?" whispered she as his hand rested for one second upon her arm.

He drew himself up proudly to his full six feet of height, and in a voice which she had never heard before he said masterfully:

"Tomorrow morning I want you to be ready to go out with me. I shall call at 10 o'clock."

"Where?" Muriel said, turning to look up at him. "To go where?"

"To hunt that Harlow flat," he answered as he pushed back his chair from the table.

Muriel adjusted the emerald fleur-de-lis at her slender waist. Dark lashes, down swept, hid the gaze that Billy knew, but he saw the flush which surged quickly over her oval cheeks and brow. And he was satisfied.

There, sitting at his pay desk, the plump, kindly host was busy making change for his waiters. As his two old customers passed him he looked up to give them a parting salutation, to hope that they had been served well, that they had enjoyed his Bordeaux. But, alas, it was necessary that monsieur's good intention should cover the deed. He had no chance to speak—they did not look his way; they were engrossed in each other.

"Mon Dieu! How happy they seem! Marriage goes well with them," he thought to himself as he went on making change for another waiter.

How the Baby Assists.

Reader, gentle or otherwise, have you ever noticed how the young father and mother of a first baby carry on a conversation?

If you have you must have wondered how in the world they managed to talk to each other before the baby became a member of the family.

The following is a sample talk in a family of three, one of which trio is a baby a year old.

Mamma (with infant on her lap)—Baby, ask popper if he will divvy mommer ze paper.

The paper is given.

Pappa—Baby, ask our mommer if she knows where popper's slippers are.

"Tell popper his slippers are in the hall closet, girly baby." The slippers are found and put on.

"Baby, has oo been a good 'tittle totkins today?"

"Girly baby, tell our popper dat oo's been de bestest, doodest, sweetest 'tittle poppy winks in the town, so oo has."

"Tze diad to hear dat, baby. Popper's own daughter girly must always be dood as a doll."

"Baby, now tell popper baby totkins is goin' sleepies and can't talk any more. By, by, popper!"

"By, by, totkins?"

Dependancy is the chief cause of suicide and business losses are more potent factors in driving individuals to commissions of rash deeds than ill health, insanity, disappointment in love, or strong drink.

ADJUSTERS

ARE WORKING ON THE POWERS-MILLER FIRE LOSSES.

The Walls of the Building Are Uninjured--Injured Firemen Are Recovering

Several insurance adjusters, representing companies that sustained losses in the Powers-Miller fire are in Newark and have been in conference with President Bradshaw and Secretary W. C. Miller in the temporary office of the company in the room to the rear of the Newark Real Estate company's office, 14 North Park Place.

It is understood that when the majority of the companies are represented a method of adjustment will be decided upon. It may be that a committee of three or more will be appointed from the number of adjusters, to arrange all the details for the payment of the losses of all the companies, but this will not be known until all the companies have representatives on the ground.

The interior of the Powers-Miller store presents a desolate sight indeed. The debris is piled high on the first floor and in several places the second and third floors have been broken through, letting a large quantity of damaged goods fall in confused heaps to the ground floor.

Walter Coffman is in charge of the ruins and keeps a watch for would-be thieves, as well as to keep curiosity seekers away from danger.

The walls of the building are not thought to be damaged to any great extent, and the foundations are intact.

Fire Chief Louis Bausch, who had a bone in his right hand broken, and Fireman John Milhorn who had his foot injured, are on duty today, and their injuries are getting along nicely.

H. P. SCOTT'S CASE

Hon. Edward Kibler and C. W. Miller, attorneys for Harry P. Scott, are busily engaged in the preparation of their client's case before the court and jury in Columbus next Thursday. The case will be called at 10 o'clock before Judge Thompson, and the attorneys have not changed their intention of going to trial in the hope of securing an acquittal for Scott.

Heath To Hold On.

Chicago, Dec. 3.--Perry S. Heath, who is in the city in an interview, declares that inasmuch as he was elected secretary of the Republican national committee for a term of four years, he does not see why he should resign before the expiration of the term.

Mr. Heath is en route to Washington to attend the meeting of the committee.

Double Liability.

Columbus, O. Dec. 3.--Stockholders of railroad, street railway, electric light, gas, water works, telephone, telegraph, power and heating, banks, building and loan and transfer companies are not exempt from double liability on their stock for debts of these corporations by the recent constitutional amendments. This is the statement of Smith W. Bennett, special counsel to the attorney general made today and it will be a shock to the holders of stock in the corporations of the above classes. They are not exempt because they are not private corporations.

Washington, Dec. 3.--After a political fight consuming an hour and a half, the house today adopted without amendment Overstreet's resolution, calling on the postmaster general to send to the house committee on post offices and post roads all papers with a bearing on the recent investigation of his department. The Democrats made a vain endeavor to amend it so that the information should go to the house instead of the committee.

FIFTH ARREST

HAS BEEN MADE IN UTICA CASE BY CONSTABLE MOXLEY.

Postmaster Lyon Files Another Affidavit--The Cases for Hearing on his store at a Vanatta. Larceny is Utica, O., Dec. 3.--Constable Moxley came up from St. Louisville this afternoon with a warrant from the court of Justice Dush and arrested Philip S. Higgins, the local agent of the Logan Gas company, who came here about a year ago from Kane, Pa.

The warrant sworn out by Postmaster S. D. Lyon, of Vanatta, makes the same charge as that in the warrant for the four men arrested last Saturday, namely, breaking a lock and entering his store at Vanatta. Larceny is not charged in the affidavit.

After the officer served the warrant subpoenas were served upon Clifford Dillon, Ray Thatcher, L. W. Ogden and Fred Hulsizer to appear as witnesses in the cases, to be tried before Squire Dush on Wednesday, December 16.

It is now stated by one of the party of nine that the following named men did not leave the carriage from the time it left Newark till it arrived in Utica. Messrs. Fred Sperry, E. M. Bell, Fred Hulsizer, Mr. Wright and Mr. Ogden.

As before stated, Mr. Lyon in his affidavit does not state that anything was taken from his store. As all of the men named in the case stand high in this community, it is justice to them to state that if the lock was broken, as alleged, it was probably in a spirit of boisterous fun and not with any burglarious intent.

There is some quiet talk here today that an affidavit may be filed by one of the men arrested, charging an attempt to compound a felony, but when this matter was broached to Postmaster Lyon he positively declared that he had made no offer to settle the case, but, on the other hand, had refused to consider a settlement.

Washington, Dec. 3.--After a political fight consuming an hour and a half, the house today adopted without amendment Overstreet's resolution, calling on the postmaster general to send to the house committee on post offices and post roads all papers with a bearing on the recent investigation of his department. The Democrats made a vain endeavor to amend it so that the information should go to the house instead of the committee.

The Hungarian, Toltz, who has been in the city prison for some days for drunkenness and disorderly conduct, was brought before Mayor Crilly this morning and given his choice of 30 days in the county jail or leave town at once. Toltz refused to leave town, saying he wanted to work here. He was taken to the county jail.

MILLER FINE

Of Five Hundred Dollars and Costs Will be Paid Within the Required Time.

W. H. H. Miller, the Newark real estate man who was assessed a fine in the United States court last week of $500 and costs, amounting to about $800, will pay the fine and costs within the time limit fixed by the court, says his attorney, Gil C. Daugherty. It is not known whether Miller's partner, S. E. Struble, will pay his fine and costs, the same amount, or not.

Miller & Struble pleaded guilty to fraudulent use of the mails in their real estate transactions.

HEATH WILL NOT RESIGN

Republican Secretary Says He Sees no Reason for Quitting.

Chicago, Dec. 3.--Perry S. Heath, secretary of the Republican National committee, who arrived here from Salt Lake City, reiterated his statement that he had no intention of resigning from the committee, because of the mention of his name in connection with the postal frauds.

"I am still in office, have not resigned, see no reason why I should resign and have no intention of doing so," said Mr. Heath. "I may take action of some sort when I reach Washington, where I will go from Chicago."

Thirty-seven per cent of the American people now live in cities of more than four thousand inhabitants.
